GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York Stock and Money Market.

New York, Nov. 30.—Stocks to-day followed the money market pretty closely, being firm when it was easy and weak when it was stringent. To-day liquidation of accounts, backed by slender margins, was general. Leading operators were accused of using great sums of money in order to subserve their purposes in the stock market, which was to buy cheap stocks under cover of a decline.

The Graphic says ¼ cent per diem was paid quite generally, and in some cases by first-class houses. Brokers have, as a natural result, been forced to sell out, and this weeding process is one that will ultimately greatly benefit speculation in more solid stocks. Money is liquidating close, and the prospect is that it will continue some time. At the same time there has been open manipulation of the rate, and this, it may be expected to continue till parties concerned have become tired of it or succeed in acquiring their lines of stocks at desired figures. There will be considerable payment on interest account to-day and during the early part of the month, and a large amount of bullion will arrive here this time next week from abroad. These should make loaning easier unless it is interfered with. It was a notable fact that the strongest stocks to-day were those in which the most decided advance has been made in the recent movement. Erie was very strong throughout, and buying, as for many days past, was of the best. The solution of last week's activity and advance in Lake Erie and Western stock, is finally solved by the announcement that a syndicate of capitalists has been formed here who have subscribed a sufficient amount of funds for the construction of an important extension of the road, which will probably make the line an important one and an assured success. The large purchases recently made in the stock market were made for account of deficient members of the syndicate.

The Bulletin says: It is fully shown that a few moneyed men can if they put forth their full power control rates for money loans and also control the course of prices. It would be well if all speculations in exchanges could be reduced in volume so money might be more free.

The "Grant" Presidential Pension.

New York, Nov. 30.—The Sun says: George Jones of the Times, when asked yesterday whether subscriptions to the ex-president fund had really been made by Vanderbilt, Mackey and others, said, "I do not feel at liberty to print the names of all contributors at present. I believe the project was initiated [illegible]. The reason for it was the fact that Grant [illegible] not in such circumstances as he ought to be. His income is only about $7,000 a year. The reason he has not more is because when he was president he lived generously and kept up the dignity of his office in his method of receiving guests. We are waiting for Boston folks and I expect the whole fund will be raised very soon."

Erie Railroad Election.

New York, Nov. 30.—The only tickets voted in the annual meeting of the Erie Railroad was the present board of directors. President Jewell cast 800,001 votes representing by proxy four-fifths of the stock. The annual report shows surplus earnings of over a half million dollars after the payment of interest, interest and fixed charges. Operating expenses have materially reduced through narrow gauge and heavier locomotives.

Europe Alarmed.

The Post says: Private advices are that the large shipments of gold to this country are at last attracting serious attention in London. It is not improbable that the bank of England will use its large power to prevent it.

A Scoundrel Arrested.

New York, Nov. 30.—A swindler, who has been sought by the police, was arrested in this city. In September, 1879, a person who passed under the name of Hugh Leslie Courtney, crossed the ocean in the steamship Wyoming to this country. To his fellow passengers he represented himself as Lord Courtney, nephew of Lord Durham, and succeeded in imposing on them. He made the acquaintance of Mrs. Col. [illegible] of Philadelphia, who was a passenger, and won her confidence. He disappeared in this city with a satchel containing some very valuable diamonds, which he had taken as if in a joke from the hands of Mrs. Floyd. He was traced to the [illegible] Hotel, but too late. Detectives are on his track, [illegible] as that of a common swindler wanted for numerous petty crimes. Last [illegible] a man who represented himself as Lord Eustace Hereford obtained $400 from the London Bank of Utah, Salt Lake city, on a draft for £100 on Ranson, Bouverie & Co. He drew a draft for the rest ($450) on Morton, Bliss & Co., the bank in New York. This he cashed, and left [illegible]polis when it was discovered that the draft was forged. A detective charged with arresting the forger, to-day met him on Broadway and took him to the police headquarters, where his identity as "Lord Courtney" was established by a photograph. He is wanted also for other swindles in this city.

Tammany is Shocked.

New York, Nov. 30.—The following was issued to-day:

TAMMANY HALL, Nov. 30.

The sub-committee of the committee on organization of Tammany Hall democratic general committee appointed to investigate fraud, corruption and intimidation practiced at the late election, is in possession of evidence which clearly demonstrates that the republican vote was enormously increased by systematic colonization, unblushing bribery and cowardly intimidation of workingmen by employers. At the proper time and place this will be made public.

The committee believing that a great deal of further information can be secured through the aid of the public to this end, invite all persons in possession of any evidence of illegal voting, bribery, or intimidation, to communicate the particulars to the chairman of the committee at Tammany hall without delay, and help expose those who have violated the elective franchise in order that deserved punishment may be enforced.

EDWARD GILLON, Chairman.

[illegible] Geary, M. H. Sagerson, Secy's.

Defaulting Official Missing.

[illegible], Nov. 30.—Benton Jones, Cashier in the [illegible] office of this city, disappeared a week ago and has not since been heard of. His accounts are said to be somewhat awry and peculation is spoken of.

[illegible] of Chicago, was elected general manager of the Chicago, Texas and Mexican railroad, at Dallas. Citizens of Dallas subscribed [illegible] miles of road southwest of Dallas has been under construction will soon be completed.

Railroad Change.

[illegible], Nov. 30.—A. A. Talmage, general manager, [illegible], assuming the charge of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, its leased lines. This line will hereafter be known as the Kansas and Texas division of the Missouri Pacific railroad, and the heads of the latter will have their supervision over the former. The officers of the Kansas and Texas are retained in their positions under the new management. Its offices will be at St. Louis.

New Railroad Line.

[illegible], Nov. 30.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company, has about finished a line from Mason City to Council Bluffs, nearly 200 miles. This road will give the Milwaukee connection with the Union Pacific [illegible], thus making it a competing line [illegible], and also places it in a position [illegible] from pool roads. One other [illegible] this line is to give the Milwaukee [illegible] Co., a better and stronger weapon to [illegible] and Northwestern road with. It gives the Milwaukee and St. Paul Co., a [illegible] Council Bluffs and St. Paul.

[illegible] Dealer Escapes Punishment.

[illegible], Nov. 30.—The trial of Dr. John [illegible] for using the mails of the United States to defraud commenced this morning in the United States court. After hearing the testimony Judge [illegible] the jury to acquit the defendant upon the ground that there was no evidence to sustain the charge of using the mails to defraud; those who knew what they were getting, and intended to defraud others.

A Bogus Message.

Rededication of Pardee Hall.

Easton, Pa., Nov. 30.—The rededication of Pardee Hall called out an immense throng of people. The [illegible], Gen. Sherman, Secretary Ramsey, and General Maynard arrived from Washington and had a hearty welcome. The services were very impressive.

A Drunken Man Murders his Wife.

[illegible], Ind., Nov. 30.—Last night Wm. Burris, who had been drinking all day and quarreling with his wife, [illegible] especially with his family, took a double-barreled shotgun, and while his wife was sitting with her babe in her arms, shot her through the head, killing her instantly. He was arrested and taken to Winchester. He claims that the shooting was accidental. He came near shooting her mother with the same weapon while drunk.

A Billiard Tournament.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—A billiard tournament for the championship of Pennsylvania was commenced here this evening. Two games were played, the first won by Wm. Jones of Pittsburg beating H. J. These Indians have conceded to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, right of way through their reservation and wish to come to this city to settle details.

Fire in the Capitol Building.

A fire broke out last night in the barber shop of the house of representatives and before it could be extinguished considerable injury was done to the walls and ceiling. The barber shop is located in one of the house cloak rooms. To-day the architect put men at work repairing the damage.

Report of the Census Superintendent.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Gen. Francis A. Walker, superintendent of the census, has submitted his regular annual report to the secretary of the interior. He says that although the work of taking the tenth census is substantially complete, returns having been received from all but seven of the total number of 31,265 enumeration districts, it will probably be two or three weeks before the office will be able to present complete statistics of the population of the country, and he therefore considers it advisable to postpone to a future report all mention of the results of the enumeration and all discussion of methods in use, as well as suggestions which may require to be made of changes in the census law with reference to future enumerations. The superintendent says every year and every month which can be saved in the compilation and publication of census statistics adds appreciably to their value, and recommends that congress be asked to authorize the printing by special contract under the supervision of the secretary of the interior, and if it be thought desirable, also of printing the several reports of the census supervisors as fast as prepared. The accounts of 23,410 enumerators have already been settled, involving a total expenditure of upwards of $1,820,000. Only about 1200 accounts remain unadjusted, and there is no reason to doubt that the month of December will see all enumerators paid for their services except only in cases where suspension is required for reasons unmistakably connected with some fault of the enumerator.

The Alaska Census.

Ivan Petroff, who was sent out last May to take the census of Alaska, returned to Washington to-day. He traveled to Attou, the extreme western end of the Aleutian Islands, northward to Norton Sound, up the Yukon river 900 miles, and overland and by canoes to Kodiak, getting all the population west of Sitka and north of Prince William's Sound. The population of the southeastern portion of Alaska was to be taken by a deputy, who has not yet reported. Petroff's enumeration of Alaska aggregates about 22,000, of which about 18,000 are Indians, 1900 Aleuts, 1500 creoles or mixed Russian and Aleut blood, 128 white males and four white females. The largest population in any one center is at Kodiak and the adjacent island, where there are about 2200, principally Indians, Aleuts and creoles, with a few whites.

In addition to the above population in Alaska, Capt. Smith, ice pilot of the revenue steamer Corwin, counted 2200 Esquimaux between Behring Straits and Point Barrow. It is estimated that Alaska contains about 30,000 human beings, of which possibly 300 are whites.

Congressional Contests in Florida.

Receipts of the patent office for the fiscal year from fees of various kinds aggregate $530,547. Total expense, $53,895.

Another Prehistoric City.

James Stephenson, in charge of the geological survey of western New Mexico, returned to-day. He claims to have discovered another remarkable prehistoric city. It extends for miles, houses being built in the face of a cliff along a canyon. It is distant some 40 miles from Santa Fe.

American Killed in the Fiji Islands.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Investigation in relation to the killing of one Johnson, an American citizen, on the Fiji Islands, reveals the fact that Great Britain claims no authority there, except to protect her own citizens. Secretary Thompson has decided to commission the first American man-of-war that has business in that vicinity to stop and redress the outrage. It is not considered worth while to send a vessel to that part of the world especially for that matter, as the man was murdered months ago.

Life-Saving Crew Drowned.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Capt. Wharton, of life-saving station No. 8, on the Massachusetts coast, reports that he picked up this morning the body of Captain Atkins, of station No. 7, and the body of one of his crew. It is thought that Atkins and his crew in attempting to board some stranded vessel during the night, were capsized and all drowned, as others are seen in the surf.

LATER.—Only the captain and two seamen were drowned, the latter named Elisha N. Taylor and Frank Mayo. The crew had rescued three men from a stranded schooner and was about to take off the commander when the schooner's boom struck and capsized their boat. The crew got ashore in an exhausted condition, and the schooner drifted away with the captain and pilot.

More about the Proposed Army Retirements.

It is understood that the chief obstacle in the way of army retirements favored by President Hayes is the hostility of Gen. Sherman. He does not believe in retiring men who although old are doing very well, and they are not so old as staff officers in Europe. It appears that there are twenty-seven officers equal to or above the grade of lieutenant colonel who might be retired under the law. This would promote one hundred and thirty-five younger officers who with their friends are urging that the law be enforced. All of the twenty-seven except eight are staff officers. Of these eight, three are general officers. It is a source of great concern to officers whether the president persists in his desire to keep the retired list full, or General Sherman's policy not to retire men as long as it can be possibly avoided. The general opinion to-day about headquarters seems to be that a compromise will be effected by the retirement of about half a dozen, including Ord, Barnes, Meade and Dun.

The Morey Fraud.

John Davenport and Marshall Jewell are still here and say the work of ferreting out the history of the Morey letter is progressing finely. The author will, Davenport says, surely be discovered, probably in a very short time, and the discovery and exposure will have a great effect in the campaign of 1884. They say that except for that letter neither New Jersey, California or Nevada would have gone democratic, and this fact will damage the democrats terribly when it is once fairly established.

Gen. Devens and the Judgeship.

Attorney General Devens wishes it understood that he does not desire an appointment to the supreme bench until Justice Clifford resigns.

Fire at Weston, Ontario.

Weston, Ont., Nov. 30.—Wilby's woolen mills burned to-day; 350 hands out of employment.

The Wreck of the Simcoe—List of the Victims.

Collingwood, Nov. 30.—The steamer Manitoulin, which arrived to-night from Manitoulin island, brought J. G. Persons, 1st mate, John Nesbitt, 1st engineer, Robt. McEnery, wheelman, Mat. Nobles fireman and J. P. Croft deck hand of the steamer Simcoe, which foundered on the 24th inst. The Simcoe left Chicago on the 18th with a cargo of 19,000 bushels of corn and general freight. She had severe gales on lake Michigan accompanied with heavy snow storms which she weathered. Early on the morning of the 24th, whilst off Providence bay on the south side of Manitoulin island, the sea was so heavy that it broke through the engine room, putting out the fires. The ship became completely unmanageable and remained in the trough of the sea, taking in water until noon when she sank. As she filled her upper works were forced away carrying the life boats with them. The five named succeeded in releasing one of the boats from the wreck and got into it. They then tried to rescue others who were clinging to the upper works but were unable to reach them. When the hull went down the remainder of the crew were standing forward by the bows and made no apparent effort to save themselves. After witnessing the wreck, the life boat containing the five persons made for Providence bay, distant 20 miles, from which place they went by steamer to Manitowang, where they took the steamer Manitoulin for this port.

The following are the names of the lost: Richard Hill, captain; Robert McNab, second mate; Ben. Millewood, wheelsman; John Henry, fireman; Tom O'Hara, Tom Leir, Donald Carr and McDougall, deckhands; Julia Gibbon, ladysmaid; Lydia Williams, cook; George Pelton, porter, and one deck hand, name unknown.

M. Honley, of Jackson county, recently sold a lot of 30 hogs averaging 275 pounds, for which he received 4½ cents per pound, gross. He raised about 3000 bushels of corn this year and will turn the most of it into pork.

THE COMING SESSION.

Its Programme Outlined—Brief and Busy.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.

There are less than thirty members of congress in the city. Among this number there is not a single one who believes an extra session of the 47th congress necessary or proposes [illegible] any tactics to bring one about. The present outlook is that the coming session of congress will be devoted almost exclusively, besides counting the electoral vote, to the passage of the regular appropriation bills, a funding bill and perhaps an apportionment bill. It is not believed, despite the forthcoming recommendation of the president and secretary of the treasury, that there will be any legislation to effect the present status of the standard silver-dollar with respect to its weight or amount of coinage. No amendatory tariff legislation is anticipated. Undoubtedly effort will again be made to put salt and paper pulp on the free list, but the whole subject of tariff revision will more probably be consigned to a commission, as proposed by the Eaton bill. The general disposition is to keep politics out of debate as much as possible, especially in the house. If the republicans manifest a desire to make the session one of business only the democrats will undoubtedly be disposed to accommodate them. Some republicans urge an extra session to enable their party to secure control of the organization of the house directly after March 4th. This will be frowned down by the leaders. All that could be gained by such control would be a few offices, at the disposal of republican leaders is to let the democrats hold on to them until December of next year. Of course there will be a special session of the senate to confirm President Garfield's appointments. How long this will last, depends first upon the nature of the struggle that may take place over the matter of organization; and, secondly, upon the possible contingency that the new Chinese treaty may not by that time have been ratified. If not, the senate will doubtless remain in session as long as May in order to dispose of it. The Chinese question has now reached such a degree of national interest that neither party will care to ignore it. There is also reason to suppose that in the event of speedy ratification of the new treaty some measure similar to the 15 passenger bill may be promptly enacted to make it effectual before the present congress expires on the 4th of March by limitation.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Irish Agitation.

Dublin, Nov. 30.—A large force of police and infantry and artillery went to New Pallis this morning to quiet the disturbance there.

A circular issued from the office of the chief secretary for Ireland to the sessions crown solicitors, directing them not to absent themselves more than 24 hours at a time from their respective counties without special cause, and to report to Forster all communications of the police with reference to outrages.

The Dale Case.

The queen's bench, without deciding on the merits of the case, have granted a writ, returnable Monday, with a view to the release of Rev. Dale, who is charged with ritualistic practices. The prosecution is required to prove the validity of its proceedings against Dale.

Hanlan and Laycock.

London, Nov. 30.—At a meeting this afternoon articles of agreement were signed for a sculling match between Laycock and Hanlan, over the Thames championship course, to take place January 17, 1881, at 2:30 P. M., for £500 a side.

Dead.

London, Nov. 30.—Herr Schulze, editor of the Cologne Gazette, is dead.

Murder of British Sailors by South Sea Islanders.

London, Nov. 30.—The admiralty have a telegram confirming the report of the murder of the commander and six of the crew of her majesty's schooner Sand Fly at Solomon Island in the South Pacific. The party were attacked while some of them were bathing. A party from the schooner under a sub-lieutenant landed, recovered the bodies and destroyed the village, losing one seaman killed and one wounded. The commodore on the South Pacific station will dispatch another man-of-war to the island.

De Lesseps on His Canal Scheme.

London, Nov. 30.—DeLesseps says: I have greater confidence in the Panama canal than I had in the Suez canal. The Atlantic and Pacific breezes will make it the healthiest region in the world. There are already excavators made which will excavate 300 cubic metres in an hour. Everything necessary is ready to start to work. Co-operation of England alone will make the canal a fact.

France and the Naval Demonstration.

Paris, Nov. 30.—In the senate to-day, during debate on the estimates of the ministry of foreign affairs, Barthelemy St. Hilaire said that the naval demonstration was undertaken to settle the Montenegrin, Greek and Armenian questions. It was the sagacious policy of France which kept the demonstration within limits.

Charge Against the German Government.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—The Voss Gazette violently attacks the North German Gazette for trying to palliate the persecution of the Jews. The Voss Gazette expresses the belief that the articles in the North German Gazette on the question are inspired. It says that the government is playing a paltry game. They merely throw out a card of Jewish persecution in order to strike at the civil liberty, as they did with the socialist agitation.

Italian Affair.

Rome, Nov. 30.—In the chamber of deputies this evening, after several orders of the day had been introduced, Signor Mancini proposed a resolution signed by twenty members declaring that the chamber desired to pronounce its opinion on important reforms which the wants of the country require. Passed to order of the day. Premier Cairoli said that the ministry accepted Signor Mancini's motion as an expression of full confidence. The motion was then adopted, 221 to 128. The cabinet regard the result as a complete vote of confidence, and in view of the state of parties in the chamber it is considered a remarkable victory for the government.

Movements of the Czar.

The czar has left Livadia for St. Petersburg.

FIXING UP TICKETS IN ADVANCE.

HEPPNER, O., Nov. 25, 1880.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I see that Bro. Morry of the Inland Empire, is setting up democratic tickets for the next state election, one of which is headed by Senator Cochran of Lane county, for governor; the other headed by Senator Haines of Baker county, for governor. I am not much acquainted with Mr. Haines, but I hear him well spoken of, and looking at it from a democratic standpoint, I think he would make a good governor. I see by the published reports of the last session of the Oregon legislature, that Senator Haines introduced and succeeded in passing a bill granting to the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co., the right of way for its railroad over state lands in eastern Oregon, and also sufficient lands for depots, side tracks, etc., but requiring the company to pay to the state $2 per acre for all the land appropriated—the maximum price for which the state sells lands.

Our country has long and patiently waited for a railroad, and now that the owners of the O. R. & N. Co. have come among us, investing their own means for the development of the vast and varied interests of this state, and especially this section of the state, it was hoped by us that no factious opposition would be made to the just measure introduced by Mr. Haines. The history of legislation in this state will show that no similar request by any railroad company has ever been denied.

Now, we hear in this way off country that foremost among the opponents of that bill was Senator Cochran. This is in keeping with his constant opposition to all the interests of Eastern Oregon, as exemplified by his bitter opposition to the payment of the war debt to our volunteers two years ago, during the discussion of which bill in the state senate he characterized our citizens as cowards.

Before Senator Cochran can receive the votes of the democracy of Eastern Oregon he will be required to make a great many explanations to them.

DEMOCRAT.

A VOICE FROM THE SOUTH.

Forcible Expression of Southern Disgust at Barnum's Tom-Foolery.

(From the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.)

It is understood that Mr. Barnum and other Democratic leaders are making arrangements for contesting General Garfield's majority in the State of New York. The Constitution cannot hope to have any particular influence with these extraordinary politicians, but, with respect to this project, we can at least give emphatic voice to the desires of the people of Georgia, and, as we believe, of the entire South. Our advice to Mr. Barnum and those associated with him in the manipulation of this silly scheme, is to drop the whole business and give the country a much-needed rest. The campaign was long and hotly contested. It exhausted all the ordinary arts of the politicians, and gave rise to various surprising inventions not creditable to either side. So far as the people of the South are concerned, they are satisfied that Gen. Garfield was fairly elected. They are convinced that an investigation would disclose as many irregularities on one side as on the other. They are not delighted with the result, but they are content. Mr. Barnum and the Democrats who are associated with him in this business are not contributing to the peace and good order of the country by digging up an element of confusion for the purpose of self-serving partisan ends. Nor are these self-constituted leaders serving the interests of the Democratic party—particularly that wing of the organization which has its abiding place in the South. We want no contest; we want no confusion; we desire no such season of doubt as Mr. Barnum and his friends seem anxious to precipitate. There is not an interest in the South that will not promptly protest against the scheme that been [illegible]. We want peace and quiet, and it will not be well for Mr. Barnum, or for the Northern Democrats, for that matter, if they presume to stand in the way of these. We advise these leaders, therefore, to give over their foolish project, and leave the country to the people, to the enjoyment of that period of quiet which they have fairly earned.

The Covert trial has been costing the county in the neighborhood of $150 per day and Judge Haines has been holding night sessions to expedite matters. The case is looming up as one of the most important ever tried in Jackson county.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

The Bonanza Case in Court.

San Francisco, Nov. 30.—The case of Burke vs. Flood et al, being a suit to recover $20,000,000 illegal profits on the milling of ores of the Con. Virginia Mining Company, was called for trial to-day in department No. 2 of the superior court. Messrs. S. W. Holladay and J. Trehune represented plaintiff and Mr. Jacobs, from the office of McAllister & Bergin, represented defendants. Mr. Jacobs stated that Mr. McAllister was engaged in the Schroeder murder trial and Mr. Bergin in another court and asked that the case stand over for a few days, and that in the interval a day could be agreed on between counsel for trial. Mr. Holladay in reply said the plaintiff insisted on a speedy trial of the case, but as the trial would probably last some weeks and a large number of plaintiff's witnesses would have to be brought from other states, it would be necessary to specially set a day certain on which the case must be tried. It was eventually agreed that the matter should stand over till Monday, and that in the meantime counsel should agree upon a day on which the case should be tried without further postponement.

Death of a San Francisco Business Man.

George H. Huntsman, member of the White House firm, died last evening. Aged 50.

The Mussel Slough Cases.

The following Mussel slough settlers J. G. Doyle, John D. Pewelling, James M. Patterson, William Braden, John Purcell, Waymen Pryer and Courtney Talbot, were placed on trial in the United States circuit court this morning, Judges Lorenzo Sawyer and Ogden Hoffman presiding, on indictments charging them with obstructing the United States marshal in the discharge of his duty and for conspiring to resist a United States marshal in the execution of processes of law. There were also indicted for the same offenses Thos. J. McQuiddy, John Yager and John Doe Fallon, who have not been arrested, and Edwin Haymaker, since deceased. The government is represented by United States Attorney Teare and Assistant Attorney Van Duzer, and the defendants by Henry E. Highton, David McClure, E. C. Marshall and H. E. McBride. A large number of spectators are in attendance. Empanelment of the jury is likely to consume two or three days.

Mauna Loa on a Bust.

Advices from Honolulu, by steamer City of Sydney, describe the eruption of Mauna Loa, now in progress, as one of the grandest ever witnessed. It broke out November 5th about six miles from the summit, the crater throwing out two great streams of lava, one of which is thirty miles long, 100 to 200 yards wide and about 20 feet deep. Terrible explosions accompany its flow. Some fears are entertained for the safety of Hilo, although the flow seems turning in another direction.

Special Election.

Sacramento, Nov. 30.—The Governor has ordered a special election, December 18th, in Solano county, for assemblyman, on account of a tie between Leach and Goodyear.

Official Canvass.

The official canvass was made to-day. Present, W. W. Morrow and J. Steppacher, for the republicans; E. W. Maslin and William Broderick, for the democrats; D. M. Burns, secretary of state, for the state. The totals do not vary the result as previously reported.

Secretary of state Burns had it in his power to have declared the state for Garfield, for the returns from Mendocino, Lassen and Siskiyou came without the seals of the boards of supervisors, and nothing appeared on them to give them official identity. Had he kept the packages unopened until to-day, as he might have done under the law, those counties must have been thrown out, as there had been no lawful verified returns filed. But the secretary opened the returns as received and discovered the error named and telegraphed the clerks of those counties that they still had time before the 29th to make proper returns. This they did.

Fatal Horse Disease at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Nov. 30.—It is stated that over 100 horses have died in this city during the past week of pneumonia which threatens to become epidemic.

Slow Work Getting a Jury.

The work of obtaining jurors in the Schroeder murder case has been going on very slowly to-day and only four were accepted. It would appear from proceedings thus far that intelligence enough to induce the reading of a newspaper is sufficient to exclude any one from the jury box.

NEVADA.

The Virginia Mines.

Virginia, Nov. 30.—The tailings mills in the canyon and at Carson have all shut down for the winter. Alta is running in three places toward the ledge. Cross cut No. 1 has 64 feet yet to go, No. 2 104, and the south drift has turned toward the east and south of cross cut No. 2, and has about 330 feet to go.

The Nevada Census.

Reno, Nov. 30.—Jackson Ferguson, supervisor of the census for Nevada, has just completed returns for this state. Official figures are not yet published. He informs the Reno Gazette that the total population of Nevada is within 100 or 200 of 60,000, showing a general gain throughout the state over the last census. Contrary to expectation, Storey county has gained, having at present a population between 16,000 and 17,000, an increase of about 4500.

Missed Fire.

Peter Dalton shot at a blacksmith named Nadon, in a quarrel on the street this morning and missed. Dalton was arrested.

CONSOLATIONS OF ASTRONOMY.

The New York Sun, the ablest and most indefatigable of democratic organs, shortly after election published a consolatory article, entitled "Jupiter." We give it herewith, since there is no reader who will fail to appreciate its serio-comic character. The other editorials of the same issue of the Sun were on "The Silo or the World's Fair," and "The Cape Cod Canal." Here is the article on "Jupiter:"

Have you noticed the wonderful brilliancy and beauty of Jupiter?

To the naked eye, and without the aid of a telescope, it looks like a torch in the sky.

A few evenings since a party of people in the country espied that the planet just as it was making its appearance above the eastern horizon, and, thinking it must be a large meteoric light of some kind, dispatched two of their number in its direction through the woods, to ascertain what it could be. Then it was thought to be an illuminated ascending balloon.

The reason why Jupiter has shone with such remarkable brilliancy of late is because it has been nearing the point when it appears largest to observers on our planet—a point it will not touch again until about twenty years hence, which will be quite as soon as the democratic party can reasonably expect to attain to power under its present leadership.

The most sublime of all studies is astronomy. It turns the thoughts of mortals from terrestrial troubles heavenward.

> "I linger yet with nature, for the night
> Hath been to me a more familiar face
> Than that of man; and in her starry shades
> Of dim and solitary loveliness,
> I learned the language of another world."

We recall to memory a conversation with Daniel Webster, at Marshfield, in which the subject of astronomy came up. Mr. Webster remarked: "In the winter season I can tell the time of night, within fifteen minutes, by the constellations—I have observed them so much. I am often reminded of the plain but sublime poetry of Dr. Watts:

> "Ye stars are but the shining dust
> Of my divine abode."

Thus was Mr. Webster's soul lifted on high when he was contemplating the heavenly bodies; but when he looked earthward, and the white house fixed his gaze he longed for that. Then came a blight over his hopes; a terrible disappointment pierced and broke his great heart and he died!

Democrats study astronomy!

Jupiter and other planets—except this earth of ours—are just about as bright as they were before election.

Beaconsfield's New Novel.

[London Cablegram.]

Beaconsfield's new novel, "Endymion," will be published toward the end of November. It has been generally reported and believed that Mr. Gladstone was to figure largely in its pages, and possibly to be mentioned in an uncomplimentary fashion as Prof. Goldwin Smith was in "Lothair," but there is the very best authority for saying that this is not the case. There will, however, be several pungent sketches of well known men and women of the day. The Longmans have paid the immense sum of £10,000 for the manuscript. No such price was ever heard of before for a novel, and Lord Beaconsfield is so much pleased with this liberal treatment that he has promised the same enterprising firm a novel to succeed "Endymion," for which he has been offered similar terms. The interest of the literary, of the social, and of the political world is concentrated on this new book, and the first edition will be of not less than 25,000 copies.

Couldn't House Him.

The engineer's wife threw down her sewing and impatiently ascended into the back-yard to settle a noisy dispute among the children. She selected Jack as the offender, and unbuckling her slipper with a quick movement she ran Jack on a siding and began to mark the "bad order" without regarding his signals and piteous howls. By this time Bob, the guilty one, having run onto the secure turn-table of the back fence, so that he could run off in either direction, screamed out, "Let up mother; shut her off, I tell you! Yer'e sent out the wrong car an' you'll run by the right one if you aint lively!" The mother coupled on and tried to make a flying switch on the culprit, but he got out on the main line, blocked the section against her and was running wild for the first siding long before the switch engine could get out of the yard.

More stock has been driven from Lake county this season than ever before. The great loss of last winter will not be felt for two or three years, as it was the stock cattle that suffered most. The increase this and next year will be so small in consequence that there will be little beef for sale then. Taking this fact into consideration, the total loss may be put at over 60 per cent.

Buying my goods from the very first hands enables me to undersell any house on this coast.

THE NORTHWEST.

Southern Oregon.

The sloughs along the Oregon border are all frozen over.

A large amount of summer fallowed land has been sown in Jackson county.

Lakeview is out of butter, which seems strange for a noted stock raising country.

Thirty bear have been killed in Deer creek valley, Josephine county in the past six months.

Josephine county miners are making more extensive preparations than ever before for a good winter's run.

The June term of the circuit court for Lake county was changed to September by the last legislature, which also raised the salary of county judge from $300 to $500.

The Presbyterian church at Jacksonville will not be completed until next year. It will be one of the handsomest buildings of the kind on the northwest coast when finished.

It is estimated by one who is well qualified to judge that the people of Jacksonville will pay $20,000 in taxes, subscriptions to public enterprises, etc., during 1880. The same authority states that $45,000 have been expended on new buildings, improvements, etc., in town, during the same time, all of which goes to show that for enterprise and liberality the people of this place are second to none in the state.

Eastern Oregon.

The ponds about The Dalles have afforded good skating for several days.

Apples from Grand Ronde valley sold last week in Baker city from wagons at 4 cents per pound.

A woman's suffrage association has been organized at Baker city with Mrs. Eliza R. Gray, president, and Mrs. S. H. McKinney, secretary.

The grand jury of Wasco county recommended the immediate construction of a new courthouse and jail, as those in present use are too worthless to repair.

There are at present at Celilo 25 carloads of car material, 1,000 iron rails, and about 1400 kegs of spikes and bolts for the N. P. R. R. awaiting shipment.

A little son of W. D. Gillmore, living about seven miles above Rockland, fell over a steep bluff and a large rock following him in his descent struck him on the head, inflicting a frightful gash. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Baker county pays to Union county farmers not less than $50,000 per year for wheat and flour. Camber's mill on Salmon creek recently bought 10,000 bushels of wheat from Grand Ronde valley farmers at a cost of 1 cent per pound, delivered.

Indians from the Warm Springs reservation are visiting The Dalles for the purpose of getting winter supplies. They have good teams, talk good English, and are probably as nearly civilized as Indians can be expected to become.

Wm. W. Bechdolt, a lad about 13 years of age, living in Langell valley, Lake county, committed suicide by shooting himself with a navy revolver, on the 19th. The cause was a trifling disagreement with his sister. His death was instant.

The daily average run of coal over the railroad from Newcastle for the week ending Saturday, Nov. 27th, was about 615 tons. One day's run amounted to 700 tons.

J. S. McCallister is having his brickyard at Lake Union enlarged to four times its present size, so by the 1st of April he will be able to turn out 30,000 brick daily.

Mrs. Cartwright, formerly Miss Emma Ritz, of Walla Walla, died at Spencer's bridge, British Columbia recently, aged 19 years. She was the second daughter of Hon. Philip Ritz, and had been married but a few months.

AN OLD ROMANCE.

A short time ago the St. Louis Globe-Democrat published a private letter from General Jackson to General Sam Houston, dated Washington, D. C., June 21, 1829, which, by some accident, has been preserved, and is now printed for the first time. In the letter, among other things, General Jackson expresses great surprise at having learned of General Houston's determination to settle with the Indians and become a savage," especially as not long before he (Houston) was about to be married to a young and beautiful lady. As a matter of fact, Houston was married to the young lady referred to, and left her the next day never to see her again. The incident has been the subject of considerable comment, and has never been explained until now. The New York Tribune publishes a letter from the Rev. Dr. G. W. Samson, of that city, giving the true explanation of the circumstance, as confided by General Houston's widow (not the lady referred to, but another whom he subsequently married) to those entrusted with the preparation of his memoirs. Dr. Samson was General Houston's pastor for fifteen years, and having requested to prepare his biography, was intrusted with the facts by his widow. We quote from Dr. Samson's letter:

Born in Virginia in 1793, left an orphan in boyhood, Sam Houston went with his mother to Tennessee, where he supported her by his own industry thus early in filial family loyalty. In 1813, at the age of twenty, he enlisted under Gen. Jackson in the Creek war, and for his repeated deeds of gallantry he so gained the esteem of Jackson that he urged him to remain permanently in the army. Resigning, however and studying law in Nashville, he rose from office to office, and in 1823, at the age of thirty, he was elected to congress, and then again in 1827 he was elected governor of Tennessee. Up to this time Houston was unmarried. Universally admired, and urged by associates to form an alliance which seemed essential to his station, a young lady of beauty and accomplishments was commended to him by family influence. His proposal of marriage was accepted, and late in 1828 the marriage ceremony was performed with unusual pomp. The next day Houston resigned his office, crossed the Mississippi into Arkansas, and December 11, 1828, wrote from the agency of his old Cherokee acquaintances the letter to President Jackson which called forth his letter of Jan. 21, 1829. None of Houston's companions knew till his death the cause of his new course, which his best friends, like Jackson, regarded as partial insanity; none but his widow could reveal it, and she only through a sense of conjugal and Christian duty. That cause was the highest test of loyalty of which any man could be capable.

"On the evening of marriage, Governor Houston observed a tremor in the voice and in the hand of his bride, when the vow of undivided attachment was pronounced, which convinced him some secret had not been revealed to him. Before retiring he frankly told her of his suspicion, asked a frank confession and pledged her that it should not work her injury. His frankness and firmness led to the confession that her affection had been given and pledged to another before their meeting, and that filial duty had prompted her acceptance of his proffer. Houston retired to his own cot, next day resigned his position, allowed the entire fault to appear to be his, permitted and encouraged her application for a divorce on the plea of desertion, and his bride was married to the man of her former affection."

General Houston's subsequent career in Texas and his service in the United States senate from 1845 to 1861 are tolerably familiar to general readers. It was many years after his separation from his first wife under the circumstance above related that he obtained a divorce by special act of the Texas legislature and married the estimable lady with whom he lived the remainder of his life, and who is still living. General Houston was a devoted husband and as truly loyal to his second wife as he was for many years to the memory of his first, whom he chivalrously sacrificed because she loved another.

The assembly has rejected sundry protectionist proposals. The railway company's bill passed the assembly amended.

Melbourne, Nov. 2.—Numerous festivities have occurred during the past month in connection with the exhibition. The attendance at first was below anticipations, but it has since increased. The question of opening at night is much discussed. Sandford, on behalf of British exhibitors protested against the proposal, which was ultimately lost. At the present time Melbourne is thronged with visitors from all parts of the colonies, owing to the combined attractions of the exhibition and races.

Parliament reassembled after recess on the 13th. The revenue for the past year was £4,354,000, being £654,000 below estimates; expenditures, £4,876,000. The principal falling off was in customs. The total deficiency at the end of the year is £1,013,000, which may be made up by issuing treasury bonds for half a million. It is estimated that the increase of revenue from present sources will be £350,000.

Five per cent treasury bonds were issued successfully and floated above 101.

A bill providing for the construction of 471 miles of railway has been introduced in the assembly and is generally approved.

The leader of the opposition visits Europe shortly. It is expected that Murray Smith will succeed to the position. Rumors of a coalition of the latter with Shanassy, discussed hitherto, are unconfirmed.

The discussion of government reform has been postponed. Berry has intimated an intention to press it forward at an early date. Sladen's reform constitution council was read second time in that chamber.

The Social Science congress continues its sittings. Many papers are discussed.

A conference meets at Melbourne on the 25th to discuss border duties and Chinese questions.

Adelaide parliament has been prorogued to the 4th of February. Revised estimates show a deficiency of £180,000.

Spurts of disgusting mucous from the nostrils or upon the tonsils, Watery Eyes, Snuffles, Buzzing in the Ear, Deafness, Crackling sensations in the Head, Intermittent Pains over the Eyes, Fetid Breath, Nasal Twang, Scabs in the Nostrils, and Tickling in the Throat are

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and undermining malady curses mankind. One-fifth of our Children die of diseases generated by its Infectious Poison, and one-fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system. Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure absorbs the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our judgment, has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

Report of the Census Superintendent.

Washington Nov 30—Gen Francis A Walker superintendent of the census has submitted his regular annual report to the secretary of the interior He says that although the work of taking the tenth census is substantially complete returns having been received from all but seven of the total number of 31,365 enumeration districts, it will probably be two or three weeks before the office will be able to present complete statistics of the population of the country and he therefore considers it advisable to postpone to a future report all mention of the results of the enumeration and all discussion of methods in use as well as suggestions which may require to be made of changes in the census law with reference to future enumerations The superintendent says every year and every month which can be saved in the compilation and publication of census statistics adds appreciably to their value and recommends that congress be asked to authorize the printing by special contract under the supervision of the secretary of the interior, and if it be thought desirable, also of printing the several reports of the census supervisors as fast as prepared The accounts of 23,410 enumerators have already been settled involving a total expenditure of upwards of $1 820 000 Only about 1200 accounts remain unadjusted, and there is no reason to doubt that the month of December will see all enumerators paid for their services except only in cases where suspension is required for reasons unmistakably connected with some fault of the enumerator

The Alaska Census.

Ivan Petro who was sent out last May to take the census of Alaska returned to Washington to-day He traveled to Alton the extreme western end of the Aleutian Islands northward to Norton Sound, up the Yukon river 900 miles, and overland and by canoes to Kodiak, getting all the population west of Sitka and north of Prince William's Sound The population of the southeastern portion of Alaska was to be taken by a deputy who has not yet reported Petroff's enumeration of Alaska aggregates about [illegible]2 000 of which about 18,000 are Indians, 1300 Aleuts, 1556 creoles or mixed Russian and Aleut blood, 134 white males and four white females The largest population in any one center is at Kodiak and the adjacent island where there are about 2200 principally Indians Aleuts and creoles, with a few whites

Washington Nov 30—Capt Warthen, of life-saving station No 8 on the Massachusetts coast, reports that he picked up this morning the body of Captain Atkins of station No 7 and the body of one of his crew It is thought that Atkins and his crew in attempting to board some stranded vessel during the night were capsized and all drowned, as others are seen in the surf

Later—Only the captain and two seamen were drowned the latter named Elisha N Taylor and Frank Mayo The crew had rescued three men from a stranded schooner and was about to take off the commander when the schooner's boom struck and capsized their boat The crew got ashore in an exhausted condition, and the schooner drifted away with the captain and pilot

More about the Proposed Army Retirements.

It is understood that the chief obstacle in the way of army retirements favored by President Hayes is the hostility of Gen Sherman He does not believe in retiring men who although old are doing very well, and they are not so old as staff officers in Europe It appears that there are twenty seven officers equal to or above the grade of lieutenant colonel who might be retired under the law This would promote one hundred and thirty five younger officers who with their friends are urging that the law be enforced All of the twenty seven except eight are staff officers Of these eight three are general officers It is a source of great concern to officers whether the president persists in his desire to keep the retired list full, or General Sherman's policy not to retire men as long as it can be possibly avoided The general opinion to-day about headquarters seems to be that a compromise will be effected by the retirement of about half a dozen, including Ord, Barnes Meade and Dun

The Morey Fraud.

John Davenport and Marshall Jewell are still here and say the work of ferreting out the history of the Morey letter is progressing finely The author will, Davenport says surely be discovered, probably in a very short time, and the discovery and exposure will have a great effect in the campaign of 1884 They say that except for that letter neither New Jersey California or Nevada would have gone democratic and this fact will damage the democrats terribly when it is once fairly established

THE COMING SESSION

Its Programme Outlined—Brief and Busy

[illegible] republicans manifest a desire to make the session one of business only the democrats will ... be disposed to accommodate them ... can urge an extra session to enable their party to secure control of the organization of the house directly after March 4th This will be frowned down by the leaders All that ... gained ... control would be a few offices and the disposition of republican leaders is to let the democrats hold on to them until December of next year Of course there will be a special session of the senate to confirm President Garfield's appointments How long this will last depends first upon the nature of the struggle that may take place over the matter of organization and, secondly, upon the possible contingency that the new Chinese treaty may not by that time have been ratified If not, the senate will doubtless remain in session as long as may be in order to dispose of it The Chinese question has now reached such a degree of national interest that neither party will care to ignore it There is also reason to suppose that in the event of speedy ratification of the new treaty some measure similar to the 15 passenger bill may be promptly enacted to make it effectual before the present congress expires on the 4th of March by limitation

FIXING UP TICKETS IN ADVANCE.

Heppner, Or, Nov. 25, 1880

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I see that Bro Merry of the Inland Empire is setting up democratic tickets for the next state election, one of which is headed by Senator Cochran of Lane county, for governor, the other headed by Senator Haines of Baker county for governor I am not much acquainted with Mr Haines but I hear him well spoken of and looking at it from a democratic standpoint I think he would make a good governor I see by the published reports of the last session of the Oregon legislature that Senator Haines introduced and succeeded in passing a bill granting to the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co the right of way for its railroad over state lands in eastern Oregon and also sufficient lands for depots side tracks etc but requiring the company to pay to the state $2 per acre for all the land appropriated—the maximum price for which the state sells lands

Our country has long and patiently waited for a railroad, and now that the owners of the O R & N Co have come among us investing their own means for the development of the vast and varied interests of this state, and especially this section of the state it was hoped by us that no factious opposition would be made to the just measure introduced by Mr Haines The history of legislation in this state will show that no similar request by any railroad company has ever been denied

Now we hear in this way of country that foremost among the opponents of that bill was Senator Cochran This is in keeping with his constant opposition to all the interests of Eastern Oregon as exemplified by his bitter opposition to the payment of the war debt to our volunteers two years ago during the discussion of which bill he ... the state senate he characterized our citizens as cowards

Before Senator Cochran can receive the votes of the democracy of Eastern Oregon he will be required to make a great many explanations to them

CONSOLATIONS OF ASTRONOMY

The New York Sun, the ablest and most indefatigable of democratic organs shortly after election published a consolatory article entitled Jupiter We give it herewith since there is no reader who will fail to appreciate its serio-comic character The other editorials of the same issue of the Sun were on The Site for the World's Fair and The Cape Cod Canal Here is the article on Jupiter

Have you noticed the wonderful brilliancy and beauty of Jupiter?

To the naked eye and without the aid of a telescope it looks like a torch in the sky

A few evenings since a party of people in the country espied the planet just as it was making its appearance above the eastern horizon and thinking it must be a large meteoric light of some kind ... part of their number in its direction through the woods, to ascertain what it could be Then it was thought to be an illuminated ascending balloon

The reason why Jupiter has shone with such remarkable brilliancy of late is because it has been nearing the point where it appears largest to observers on our planet—a point it will not touch again until about twenty years hence which will be quite as soon as the democratic party can reasonably expect to attain to power under its present leadership

The most sublime of all studies is astronomy It turns the thoughts of mortals from terrestrial troubles heavenward

> I linger yet with nature for the night
> Hath been to me a more familiar face
> Than that of man and in her starry shades,
> Of dim and solitary loveliness
> I learned the language of another world.

We recall to memory a conversation with Daniel Webster at Marshfield, in which the subject of astronomy came up Mr Webster remarked 'In the winter season I can tell the time of night within fifteen minutes by the constellations—I have observed them so much I am often reminded of the plain but sublime poetry of Dr Watts

> Ye stars are but the shining dust
> Of my divine abode

Thus was Mr Webster's spirit ... on high when he was contemplating the heavenly bodies but when he looked earthward at the White House ... his gaze he longed for that Then came a blight over his hopes a terrible disappointment pierced and broke his great heart and he died

Beaconsfield's New Novel.

[London Cablegram.]

Beaconsfield's new novel Endymion will be published toward the end of November It has been generally reported and believed that Mr Gladstone was to figure largely in its pages and possibly to be mentioned in an uncomplimentary fashion as ... Goldwin Smith was in Lothair but there is the very best authority for saying that this is not the case There will however be several ... sketches of well known men and women of the day The Longmans have paid the immense sum of £10 000 for the manuscript No such price was ever heard of before for a novel and Lord Beaconsfield is ... [illegible] ... the first edition will be of not less than 10 000 copies

AN OLD ROMANCE

A short time ago the St Louis Globe Democrat published a private letter from General Jackson to General Sam Houston dated Washington D C June 21 1829 which by some accident has been preserved and is now printed for the first time In the letter among other things General Jackson expresses great surprise at having learned of General Houston's determination to settle with the Indians and become a savage especially as not long before he (Houston) was about to be married to a young and beautiful lady As a matter of fact, Houston was married to the young lady referred to and left her the next day never to see her again The incident has been the subject of considerable comment and has never been explained until now The New York Tribune publishes a letter from the Rev Dr G W Samson of that city, giving the true explanation of the circumstance, as confided by General Houston's widow (not the lady referred to but another whom he subsequently married) to those entrusted with the preparation of his memoirs Dr Samson was General Houston's pastor for fifteen years and having requested to prepare his biography was intrusted with the facts by his widow We quote from Dr Samson's letter

Born in Virginia in 1793 left an orphan in boyhood, Sam Houston went with his mother to Tennessee where he supported her by his own industry thus early learning family loyalty In 1813 at the age of twenty, he enlisted under Gen Jackson in the Creek war, and for his repeated deeds of gallantry he so gained the esteem of Jackson that he urged him to remain permanently in the army Resigning however and studying law in Nashville he rose from office to office and in 1823, at the age of thirty he was elected to congress, and then again in 1827 he was elected governor of Tennessee Up to this time Houston was unmarried Universally admired and urged by associates to form an alliance which seemed essential to his station a young lady of beauty and accomplishments was commended to him by family influence His proposal of marriage was accepted, and late in 1828 the marriage ceremony was performed with unusual pomp The next day Houston resigned his office crossed the Mississippi, into Arkansas and December 11, 1829, wrote from the agency of his old Cherokee acquaintances the letter to President Jackson which called forth his letter of Jan 21 1829 No one of Houston's companions knew till his death the cause of his new course which his best friends, like Jackson, regarded as partial insanity no one but his widow could reveal it and she only through a sense of conjugal and Christian duty That cause was the highest test of loyalty of which any man could be capable

On the eve of marriage Governor Houston observed a tremor in the voice and in the hand of his bride when the vow of undivided attachment was pronounced which convinced him some secret had not been revealed to him Before retiring he frankly told her of his suspicion, asked a frank confession and pledged her that it should not work her injury His frankness and firmness led to the confession that her affections had been given and pledged to another before their meeting and that filial duty had prompted her acceptance of his proffer Houston retired to his own cot next day resigned his position allowed the entire fault to appear to be his permitted and encouraged her application for a divorce on the plea of desertion and his bride was married to the man of her former affection

General Houston's subsequent career in Texas and his service in the United States senate from 1845 to 1861 are tolerably familiar to general readers It was many years after his separation from his first wife and under the circumstances above related that he obtained a divorce by special act of the Texas legislature and married the estimable lady with whom he lived the remainder of his life and who is still living General Houston was a devoted husband and as truly loyal to his second wife as he was for many years to the memory of his first whom he chivalrously sacrificed because she loved another

THEY HAVE "HAD ENOUGH OF IT"

And now the democratic organs tell us they are sick and tired of the Morey letter. Small wonder, since the villainy has been so clearly exposed. Even the most solid and stupid of the organs can no longer claim that the letter is anything else than a despicable forgery. Their energies are now employed in endeavors to frame excuses for their own conduct in giving publicity to the letter and vouching for its genuineness after General Garfield had disowned and denounced it, and in apologizing for the course pursued by the national democratic committee in relation to it. An Oregon organ "hopes that no one imagines or believes that the democratic committee circulated the letter knowing it to be a forgery," and another Oregon organ says "it may have been a trick or trap laid for the democratic committee by the unscrupulous managers of the republican party as is now very strongly suspected." This last is the most beautiful and rational theory yet presented. It makes the democratic national committee and all the democratic organs of the country the dupes and tools of the republican managers. It makes the republicans themselves the inventors of the only instrument which was used with effect against their party in the whole course of the contest—an instrument which despicable as it was, gave the democratic party the only electoral votes it has secured in the northern states. It disburdens the democratic committee and the democratic organs of any intentional wrong and makes them the guileless and unsuspecting agents of the republican managers in spreading broadcast a forgery to defeat General Garfield, in hiring and paying perjurers to prove its authenticity, and in sending all over the country and causing to be published fac similes of the pretended letter and the suborned testimony to prove it. Here is a line of defense for Barnum and Hewitt which they have not yet thought of. When they are made acquainted with it they will surely recognize, acknowledge and reward in some fitting way the organ on this extreme list, this utmost bound of the democratic vineyard, to whose sagacity they owe their deliverance from a dilemma which, to their ingenuity, offered no escape from a deep plunge in dishonor. It is as fortunate an escape as that made by the great wit, Sheridan, who, when picked up drunk in the streets and required to give his name, answered that he was William Wilberforce. Barnum and Hewitt should be advised by telegraph at once of the discovery made at Oregon that that the letter was forged by unscrupulous republican managers to get them into difficulty. They may want to set this plea up in defense in the criminal proceedings against themselves.

But it would be just like the rogues who have led these guileless persons into difficulty to plead that this defense is rather thin, and to appeal to the proofs. Hewitt, for example, has been struggling desperately to clear himself of dishonor in the affair. He protests that he had nothing to do with the alleged letter till after it was published, and had not even seen it. But Hart, the publisher of the underground newspaper in which the forged letter first appeared, testified under oath as follows: "We were not prepared to publish it [the Chinese letter] until the handwriting had been examined by some one familiar with Garfield's handwriting. We communicated with the democratic national committee. There were in the rooms Speaker Randall, Mr. Hewitt, Mr. Barnum, and about ten others. In consequence of what was said by persons representing themselves familiar with Mr. Garfield's handwriting, we decided to publish it." That is, Hart swears that he showed the letter, before it was published, to Hewitt and other members of the democratic national committee. The letter being vouched for by Hewitt and others, Hart published it. It appeared on the morning of Oct. 20. That night at a democratic meeting at Chickering hall Hewitt made a speech, according to a report which was printed and sent out by the committee, in which he said: "Some people may incline to pronounce it a forgery. I have seen it. I am familiar with Gen. Garfield's signature. I have compared it with his letters in my possession, and I have no doubt it is genuine." Thus both the testimony of Hart and the statement of Hewitt himself prove the latter guilty of falsehood in saying that he knew nothing about the letter till after it was published. The letter was submitted to the committee by Hart; and there was Hewitt, claiming to have received several letters from Gen. Garfield, and therefore prepared to pronounce on the genuineness of this one, which he did. Hart says under oath that Hewitt "took half an hour to examine it, and then pronounced it genuine." Hewitt now says that he never pronounced the body of the letter genuine, but only the signature. But Hart's testimony is that Hewitt "pronounced the body and the signature the same." Supported by the declaration of Hewitt and backed by the democratic national committee, Hart then resolved to publish it. Observe that this is sworn testimony. It disproves at once the claim made by the committee that it knew nothing of the letter till after it had been published.

In its address issued since the election, in which it has tried to clear itself of the infamy, the committee says "that neither the committee nor any sub-committee thereof ever took any action in regard to the Morey letter." How happens it then that such dispatches as the following appeared in nearly every democratic paper in the United States, including the organ in this city? Read:

> New York, Oct. 20.—The following was published in Truth this morning. The letter is authentic. It is in Gen. Garfield's handwriting. Denial is worse than useless. It should have the widest circulation among all classes, as it unmasks the republican hollowness and hypocrisy on the labor question through their chief. [Signed] WM. H. BARNUM.

Here the forged letter was recited in full, and the following was added in pretended explanation of the manner of its discovery:

> The original letter, of which the foregoing is a copy, is in Truth's possession. It was mailed at Washington by the republican candidate for president to Henry L. Morey, a prominent member of the Employers Union, Lynn, Massachusetts. At his death which recently occurred, it was found among his effects. The envelope inclosing it, the original of which is also in Truth's possession, is marked "personal" as carefully as the letter itself is marked personal and confidential.
> WM. H. BARNUM.

The next step was the effort to get testimony to support the forgery. The country knows the history of that effort. We need not review the case further. It is enough to know that the forgery was uttered after consultation with the democratic national committee, that the committee multiplied copies of it by the million and sent plates of it to all the democratic newspapers of the country, by which means copies were multiplied still more; that in the effort to support the forgery, perjury was committed which was paid for by the committee's check, and that the tools of the conspiracy are now in the hands of the law. Of course the small rascals are of no consequence. Everybody knows that the real villains are the managers of the late democratic campaign. Their efforts to lie out of it are only to be expected, for it cannot be supposed that men like Hewitt and Barnum, who would catch at a forgery, circulate it, make it their own, telegraph columns of falsehoods daily for more than a week in support of it, and finally draw their check of perjury to confirm it, would hesitate now to lie about their agency and action in the affair. No wonder they all say they are "sick of it." Hewitt the other day said he hoped he had done with it. Like Iago after perpetrating a villainy he wants "to take his leave." As the moral proofs against the principal scoundrels are so conclusive, the legal proofs should not be impossible of obtainment. From the dispatches almost daily received it is clear that the case is not yet ended.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC

Our dispatches furnish full particulars concerning the formation of the syndicate to complete the Northern Pacific railroad. It is evident from the names given that the combination is the strongest one ever formed to build a railroad in America. No doubt can now be entertained that construction will be pushed as rapidly as money and labor can be utilized. President Billings is entitled to great credit for his success in enlisting a strong an association in the work of completing the road. When he accepted the presidency of the company it was with the firm purpose of making the great enterprise successful, and he has devoted to it a degree of energy and skill which is now bearing fruit. Ever since the reorganization of the company after the collapse of Jay Cooke Mr. Billings has been the soul of the enterprise. Without him it never would have displayed the energy which now has placed it on the high road to speedy success. Three years ago the Northern Pacific then struggling for credit sought renewal of its land grant. Mr. Billings and his associates learned then not because their company could not hold the grant without additional legislation for this it could do but for the reason that notice of renewal of the grant would give the company additional credit and strength. But an Oregon senator was in a position to defeat their efforts. Extension of time was denied them unless on conditions that would have crippled the company and were intended to cripple it. Rather than accept renewal of the grant on terms that would have embarrassed and hampered them the managers preferred to have no legislation at all. But this put back the enterprise greatly. It is certain that had it not been for the course of Mr. Mitchell in the senate the Northern Pacific railroad would now be approaching completion. It was put back by him not less than two years. Had the grant been promptly renewed, as requested by the managers of the company, an arrangement similar to the one now made for completion of the road could have been effected long ago. Oregon and the Pacific northwest have been greatly injured and abused first and last, on this railroad question. A proper perception of the interests of the northwest and diligent attention thereto, would have secured government aid for a branch from Salt Lake to the Columbia river at the time the government built the Union and Central roads. But our then representatives could not agree, or did not give the subject their attention. Again we were put off by the action of one of our representatives in the case of the Northern Pacific. Now at last we are to get a road without the help of our representatives. Fortunately the case is now so changed that we have none who could throw any obstacles in the way, even if they should attempt it. Our experience here shows how unfortunate it is for a young community which needs legislation to have representatives who either have no perception of its interests, or who are attached to rival interests elsewhere.

But this, let us now hope is over. Natural causes will now bring the result which faithless treatment of our interests in congress has hitherto prevented. The attention and efforts of the Northern Pacific company will first be directed to construction of the 850 miles through Montana and Northern Idaho, thus connecting the Missouri and Pen d'Oreille divisions. This indicates a purpose to make connections with the roads of the O. R. & N. Company on the upper Columbia, and confirms the inferences we drew from Mr. Villard's telegraphic statement furnished two weeks since, which gave the first information received here in regard to the formation of the syndicate for completion of the Northern Pacific. Our people will now see the force of Mr. Villard's statement that the rapid construction of the Northern Pacific from the Missouri to the Columbia will hasten the construction of the O. R. & N. Company's line from The Dalles to Portland. It is apparent now that this section must be built in anticipation of the Northern Pacific; and that this is in the programme of the latter is clearly shown by the fact that the central division of the Northern Pacific, connecting the Missouri and Pen d'Oreille divisions, is to be the first object of the company's efforts. It may be assumed that terms have been all arranged between the two companies so that friendly connection and co-operation will be maintained between them.

The experience of the past in railroad building through new and unsettled regions has evidently been of service to the syndicate which has now undertaken the Northern Pacific. Nothing in this arrangement will be done loosely or be entrusted to chance. The money is only to be forthcoming as the road is finished, and will not be supplied in excess of $25,000 a mile. Conservatism and careful management will not be inconsistent, however, with highest energy in pushing the road to completion.

A table has been prepared by the agricultural bureau at Washington, compiled from latest returns, giving the number of domesticated animals in Europe and the United States. It shows that in Europe there are 31,573,633 horses, while in the United States there are 10,938,700. Europe has 4,133,041 mules and asses while the United States has 1,719,100, not including, it may be supposed, those of Barnum. There are in Europe 89,678,248 horned cattle, while there are in the United States 33,234,500. There are in Europe 194,026,230 sheep while the United States has 33,126,600. There are in Europe 42,666,493 swine, while the United States has 31,766,100.

According to the census returns the city of New York has 25,053 more females than males. In Philadelphia the excess of females is 35,182; in Brooklyn, 20,971, and in Boston, 19,736. Total for the four cities, 100,942. New York shows a gain of male population, relatively, since 1870; that is, the excess of females is now less than it was then; but the other cities named show an increased excess of females as compared with 1870. Chicago, on the contrary, has 15,078 more males than females. The same is true of most, perhaps all, western cities, and is accounted for mainly by the steady drain of young men from the east to the west.

A Georgia paper makes this remarkable statement: "For eighty five years we run the government, while the Yankees were making money. In 1860 they took possession of the political machine, whipped us out, and, by the most remarkable piece of legerdemain known to political economy transposed three billions of money invested in slaves which we owned into those billions of government bonds which they now own." This is an original way of putting the case. The truth of history is sacrificed to a studied antithesis which was the object of the writer, rather than accuracy of statement.

To-day (Wednesday, Dec. 1st,) the electors chosen on the 2d November are to meet at the capitals of their respective states and vote for president and vice president. Messengers to convey the electoral votes to Washington have been done away with by law. Now the electors certify their proceedings and forward them to the president of the senate by mail.

The Cunard line is launching a steamer 500 feet long, the Anchor line, one 550 feet long, the Inman line, one of 8000 tons, the Guion line one of 6400 tons, the North German line one of 5000 tons and the Allen line one of 5500 tons. The business of the great Atlantic steam ferry requires constant addition to the number of vessels of all the lines.

"Gath"—George Alfred Townsend—tells an apocryphal story about a purse of $5000 having been made up by a few business men of New York and sent to General Garfield to pay off the mortgage on his house. He says the gift is anonymous and that Garfield will never know whence it came.

There was recently an [illegible] advance in [illegible] at San Francisco. The reason given for the advance which amounted to [illegible] for all descriptions was scarcity of [illegible] and enhanced freight rates from [illegible] Columbia, Seattle and Coos Bay. A San Francisco commercial paper says that orders have gone to England and the colonies for large supplies and it is predicted that within a few months the market will collapse. Meantime the Central Pacific railroad is taking active measures to meet the demand by forwarding coal to San Francisco from the Rocky mountains. It will send 100 car loads a day till the famine is over.

Efforts heretofore made to establish a monthly magazine in California have signally failed, but the Californian which started a year ago without any great flourish [illegible] promises seems destined to a career. As a magazine it is highly creditable to its managers. By undisputed merit it is pushing its way to extensive recognition. Its table of contents for December would be well worthy of any magazine. Published by the California Publishing Co., 202 Sansome street, San Francisco.

If the Atlanta Constitution is to be believed the south is to be extremely reasonable in its demands on the new administration. No cabinet members are to be asked for and the only request the south has to make is that the secretary of the navy shall be a man who knows how to swim.

WEIDLER'S SAW MILL.

Sold to the Oregon Improvement Company—Intention of the New Owners.

The entire possessions of the Willamette Lumbering and Manufacturing Company, more familiarly know as Weidler's saw mill will be transferred today to the newly organized Oregon Improvement Company. Negotiations for the sale were effected between Mr Geo. W Weidler, who is now east, and the officers of the company in New York. The sale includes the buildings, grounds lumber, logs, the steamers Wonder and Ordway, and all the barges of the company. Although the transfer will be formally made to-day, the new owners will not assume control until Mr Weidler's return from New York. The principal object of the Oregon Improvement Company in making this purchase was to enable the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company to have facilities within themselves for supplying their needs in the way of lumber and ties, and be independent of other corporations. Their requirements in this important branch of railroad building for the next two years will be beyond all precedent in the history of Oregon, and this new accession will prevent any delay in pushing lines which might have resulted from default of others. The mill will be enlarged during the winter, and worked to full capacity night and day

GIRARD COLLEGE

An Or... lady now of Philadelphia writes as follows

Among the many places of interest to the stranger in Philadelphia there are none ... Girard College ... buildings ... July 4 1833 ... was completed ... Girard died in December 1831 and left $2,000,000 ... worth of property to be devoted to the erection of buildings ... The will first required that the children ... born in Philadelphia ... in the city of New York and ... New Orleans ... number ... Pennsylvania ... so much ... years from outside ... came from New York city ... awaiting admittance in Pennsylvania ... and four hundred boys ... popularity of the institution ... popular ... between ten and ... years ... expense paid and the best of ... and allowed to remain until 18 ... by stays on an average of 7 or 8 ... institution ...

The school curriculum is very ... that of the public schools of the city. Thirty ... teachers in all are employed ... are ladies and ... gentlemen ... instruction in military tactics, ... mental and vocal music.

The entire corps of servants employed about the premises is ninety three. These include girls in the laundry cooks, chambermaids, dining room girls seamstresses scrubbing girls, etc. Besides these are the stewards and house ... officers who have charge of the boys out of school hours. Over 1000 persons in all including the boys who carry on this great philanthropic enterprise.

The lady teachers receive salaries ranging from $500 to $1000 per year and board ... ladies all unmarried. The president a gentleman of dignified yet kindly presence, smilingly remarked that when they entered the college as teachers they left all hope behind and resigned themselves to old maids and exercise a motherly care over other children.

The principals receive $2500 per year and board. Judging from the appearance of the boys they are well cared for. We visited the dining rooms and found them neat and well adapted to the purpose, as were the dormitories each with about 30 beds. Each boy's wardrobe is in a separate closet, every article, even to a necktie marked with his name.

The officers consist of president, vice president and fifteen directors, twelve of the latter are appointed by the judges of the courts and three directors ex-officio, mainly the mayor and presidents of the two city councils.

The buildings are all built of marble or stone—floors and all. The old college is ... feet and takes up an acre of ground. It is occupied by sixteen school rooms, one large room being set apart for the relics of Stephen Girard where we saw the dishes, carriage, furniture, boxes, ... spars, pictures, &c., of the founder of this great institution. His body lies in the vestibule at the entrance of the main college. The desks have platforms of wood beneath them to keep the children ... contact with the marble floor.

This building has a porch on the four sides and immense pillars of marble support the massive structure.

The other buildings average 100 feet and are mostly used as boarding houses. One or two are used for primary schools. There are two more being erected, which will enable the institution to accommodate 150 more boys.

The estate consists in a great part of coal mines in the state and real estate in and about the city. The interest only is used to carry the expenses which are $250,000 per year. There is between $700,000 and $800,000 income from the estate over and above the expenditure, and this is invested in real estate so when the coal mines are exhausted there will be an unusual reserve fund to carry on the good work. The school opened with only 100 boys and now numbers 879 and in another year will receive 1000.

The grounds about the buildings are beautifully kept green lawns dotted with flowers and shrubbery, stretching away in all directions. However on one side is the parade ground where a battalion of four companies drill each company once a week, and general parade on Friday.

The officers and band of musicians are all college boys excepting Maj Ryan, the drill master, a soldier in the late war and graduate of West Point

On the west side of the main college stands a silent yet eloquent monument erected to the memory of 25 of the college graduates who fell on field of battle during the late war. ... the remembrances be ever as green as the lovely lawns that surround their alma mater.

One of the buildings is a beautiful chapel where the boys assemble on the Sabbath and are addressed by laymen, it being one of the express commands in the will that no minister of whatever faith should be so much as allowed to visit the grounds. This rule is rigidly enforced, no one being allowed to enter through the gate unless armed with a pass signed by a director.

Much more might be written, but for fear of wearying the reader we desist only advising anyone who visits the city of Philadelphia to include this in their round of sight seeing.

TUESDAY EVENING, Nov. 30th.

In relation to what was said in THE OREGONIAN of this date on the wheat market, it may now be stated that there could not justly be said to be a combination among buyers to put the price down to $1 45. It should be stated rather that after careful review of the market they came to the conclusion that it would bear no more than $1 45, and their offers are now regulated accordingly.

This quotation to the country at $1 45 per cental it must be borne in mind is given by the merchants to last for three or four days, and with a declining tendency in Liverpool it was thought to be only safe to give out. At the same time we believe for a lot here on the spot to-day at least $1 47½ per cental might be had, but with adverse advices from Europe the tendency is certainly to a lower range of value.

The French Harvest—Some Important Facts.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The Commercial Bulletin shows by returns that the French wheat crop this year has only been surpassed in France eight times during the present century. The increase over last year is 6,3[illegible]9,000 bushels. These unexpectedly large results of the French harvest are evidently attracting attention in England and on the continent. In our foreign crop advices a Hamburg dealer complains that the grain amassed by speculators there cannot be sold because France is supplying their usual customers. French statistics show that Europe is better off in wheat by 20,000,000 quarters than in the autumn of 1878. The Bulletin adds: There appears to be in trade a predisposition to withhold due weight from the facts of supply and to magnify the importance of deficiencies. If however, speculators can be found who are willing to operate in defiance of the facts they must be prepared to carry a large portion of their surplus over to next year, when their success will depend wholly upon the chances of a deficient harvest.

Esthetic Value of the Sense of Smell.

[Henry T. Finck in December Atlantic.]

It is a curious fact, which I believe has never before been noticed, that newspapers and books differ in smell almost as widely as they do in style and contents. The New York Tribune, Times, Herald, World and Graphic, can be readily known in this way after a last trial, even by an ordinary nose. And those who are fond of paradoxes may reflect that many newspapers that are not in good odor are nevertheless quite fragrant. A little practice will enable a person to go to his library in the dark and pick out a certain book from a multitude of others on the same shelf. From a practical point of view, this is not a trifling matter. It is also comparatively easy to distinguish English and French from German books and newspapers. Printers may know why some books are remarkably fragrant, as, for instance, among those on my table, the 1864 edition of Gray's Structural and Systematic Botany; and I never neglect to have a sniff at the Fortnightly Review before dipping into its interesting contents. That the manifold associations which in course of time come to be connected with such literary odors give them a certain emotional or esthetic value is self-evident.

Boy's Essay on a Statesman.

That was a statesman. His collar was 16 and his hat was 5. He went to a meetin to orate. He said "ax me a question if you want to no." So when he was a swetin' under his shirt a man hollered and he said "Wot is a tariff anyway?" And the statesman he larfed kinder short and he said, "I want no foolin' round me. I'm a b-a-d man and carry a kane." So he gave his kane a whirl and laid it on the table. Then this orful man down among the spitoons said, "How much is tarif a peck, anyway?" An' the statesman sed, real hot, "I am a freeman, and I won't be adjourned so I demand the law." And then the law, dressed as a polishman, got the orful man by the back hold and took him to the Kaboze. An' when in the Kaboze he did not ax any more tarif queshons, but fought the cokroches all night. An' the statesman went home with his kane.

EDUCATION—SECULAR AND RELIGIOUS.

The Previous Question: Why Have We Public Schools at All?

BY PRESIDENT J. R. HERRICK, S. T. D.

Objections to the continued use of the bible in the public schools may be easily raised, and such as in themselves may seem plausible. There are many, of whom what Judge Sage says may be true: "It is not liberty of conscience that those men who are opposing the bible in the schools desire. What they are seeking for is the establishment of an order of things which will enable them to so fix in the minds of their children, and so fasten in their minds views and tenets, that they will be proof against all other teachings." But, without charging this, there are specious and plausible arguments. One is this: Religious sects, as such, should not receive the public money for their own schools. "What does this come to, in plain English?" asks the Fortnightly Review, and then answers thus: "To this, that the State is going to provide the money for the schools, and the clergy and clerically-disposed laymen are to have the management of them." Hence the conclusion—it does not follow logically from the data, but it is assumed to do so—that all schools supported by the State must be wholly secular.

Another argument puts its reasoning before us in this way: Romanists dislike the Protestant bible; therefore, we must give up the bible and have no religious instruction whatever in our public schools. Let parents at home, in churches and Sunday schools, in their own congregations, teach such religion as suits them best.

Also, as palliation and partial argument in itself, it is said, that very little good can result from the inattentive reading or hearing of the bible; and that, therefore, no serious objection can be made to the discontinuance of the practice. Put in unequivocal words, this argument is: Since the use of the bible in the public schools does very little or no good—an assumption, not proof—therefore let its use be optional. No, for this it is now; but let it be forbidden.

Behind these comes the invincible argument, as those who press it seem to imply that it is so, to be hereafter considered, viz., that religious instruction, even the reading of the bible in schools, savors of a state religion. This has done a great deal of mischief in the Old World—it must by no means be allowed in the New. To avoid this great evil, we must have secular schools, untouched by the least shadow of religious thought or belief.

Thus the question is permitted to show, like the moon, only one side, and that the negative. It revolves only half way round, and back again. We hear much of the reasons why the bible should not be in the schools; not much of reasons why it should be there. And yet, there are fundamental positions which ought to determine the problem, and which might and ought to keep from individual prejudice and side issues.

It is from the positive side alone that the subject can show its intrinsic merit, and this is what we should seek to find. Indeed, objections of whatever kind are properly weighed only in scales thus prepared; and we must adjust our scales before we attempt the weighing. We must get our beam rightly poised on its pivot. We must have the true answer to the question which stands at the head of this article, for we cannot solve the problem without it nor at any point lose sight of it without being in danger of false issues.

Why does the State educate? Till we gain the unequivocal answer to this question, it is vain to look for one to the main question. The true answer will show what is needed, and by what means the end is to be secured. We have no point of departure for our survey, till the valid reason for public schools is laid down. This is equivalent to the inquiry, Why does the State appropriate money and make provision for the education of its children?

Here, at the outset, it must be made clear that the "regulative principles" are to be drawn from civil morality and a true political economy. The one party would claim this; the other must admit it. The only difference here would be as to what are the principles of political philosophy which should govern us. This difference, to be sure, may be radical. Now, political science would bring an answer to the question, Why should the State educate, in these very distinct words, which should be written in capitals: The State educates that she may secure to herself the best possible citizens, both for the present and the future.

According to the principles of civil ethics, she must seek her own highest well-being. This is secured only in the possession of the largest number possible of true citizens. For the sake of and as the means of securing these, she inaugurates a system of public education for her children. Through these public freedom—another name for well-being—is maintained. I think no one would really care to controvert the position here taken.

Let the proper distinctions be made and kept in mind. The individual himself, conscious of his need, may seek to develop his powers to their fullest extent. Philanthropists, incited thereto by compassion for destitute children, may provide for them means of education. Christian men, moved by a disinterested love for the perishing, may strive to bring all under the saving influence of the gospel. But the State does not, as such, put forth efforts in behalf of education per se, nor of philanthropy per se, nor of christianity per se. In themselves, considered for their own sake, she regards them not; she seeks them not. Her direct efforts are put forth for her own present and prospective well-being. To her, education is not an end in itself. To her, religion is not an end in itself. Such is civil morality, and political economy, too, when worthy of the name. The end of both is the highest freedom or well-being of the State.

It is true, the secularists oppose this view. Thus Dr. Spear assails President Seely's position on this subject, which, nevertheless, is the true philosophy, the critic himself being blinded by his false assumption that if the State has anything at all to do with religion, it must be in the interest of religion itself. Thus Judge Steele says: "I know no duty which the State recognizes as a merely christian duty," and would make this position an argument against the use of the bible in State education. What he says is true, but his conclusion does not follow. For christianity lies back of and underneath all legislation in this land, and both supports and gives direction, through legislation, to our free institutions.

Judge Sage assumes the true position in opposition to this false one in his able argument in the "Cincinnati case." "The State," he says rightly, "does not contemplate instruction in religion for the spiritual welfare of the children. That is not the object. The great object is to give the children a knowledge of the truths upon which all religion is based, so that they shall be possessed of the truths which furnish the highest sanction and strongest authority to the law of the state. What is necessary to that is the measure of instruction to be given.

"It is evident, then, that such instruction as will tend to secure life, prosperity and the peace of society; such instruction as will fit the youth in the schools to be good and useful citizens, should be provided. To prohibit absolutely and imperatively such instruction, would be to strike a death blow at the great object for which the schools were established; a blow, which, if it should reach its mark, would let out the life-blood of the whole system of public instruction."

Why does the state build houses of correction and penitentiaries? It is that she may "receive no damage" from those who have become disorderly. She provides for her poor likewise, as an expedient for securing the general health, just as a weak limb must be nursed for the body's sake. Herein also we have the explanation of her liberal outlay for schools and the education of the young. It is because her highest weal cannot be secured except through intelligence and virtue; that is, citizens trained to virtue and intelligence.

This position of public education as related to citizenship—impregnable in political ethics as the Ehrenbreitstein of the Rhine—furnishes the key to certain queries, and which we must use in the further discussion of this subject; important questions which otherwise might remain in confusion, as to many they seem to do.

For instance, it is quite too superficial to say the state ought to teach just so much in quantity—reading, writing and arithmetic, with certain other branches added perhaps—unless it can be surely determined that so much of these very things will secure to her the needed and worthy citizens. Otherwise the quantity hardly enters into the problem as a determining element. The prudent question, the rather, is: "What is that education, which given to the children of the commonwealth, will make sure to her the needed citizens?" This, in kind, as well as degree, she is bound to provide.

Again, if colleges and universities do truly promote the health of the body politic, it is on this ground the state is justified in making provision for them. In some instances this is done, as more generally for academies and high schools, the reason being this: The return to the state is a compensation, not in dollars and cents, but in citizenship.

It is readily perceived, furthermore, that the care and training of her children cannot be confined to one sex—to those only who exercise the franchise. For worthy fathers and sons cannot be had without worthy mothers and daughters. Hence, from regard to her own good, the state must bring all her children under her foster care. And in some instances we know coercive measures are resorted to for this end.

Once again it becomes pertinent to ask: Is not, in fact, genuine manhood the state's greatest need, she being strong in the possession of it, weak without it? If this be so, then she must seek to have men in order to have citizens. Hence, the education she ought to foster is that which nurtures the germinal manhood and gives promise of its full development under the attire of citizenship. Thus the inquiry: What is the education which man as man needs; of great intrinsic interest surely—is not foreign to the main question of state education. Holding the design of public instruction to be that which has been laid down, these inquiries are pertinent and must be answered, together with this: Man possessing capabilities reaching to a personal God, can he if this relation is disregarded, be fitted for [illegible] relations and an earthly life?

This would lead us into the sphere of morality as related to religion, the religion of the bible. We should need to ask for the same method of developing the religious nature, whether this is not really by bringing the mind of childhood into contact with the principles of God's word; whether the noblest or the only really controlling morality can be secured [illegible] any other way; whether, therefore, a system of education which concerns itself wholly with nature and her laws or with secular affairs; and education which is simply intellectual, or intellectual and esthetic, can prepare [illegible] for the state; men who shall be as a corner stone of a palace?

Finally, to render the case more definite, her own welfare being the reason why the state educates, and this requiring her to give, if possible, both in kind and degree, that education best calculated to secure the desired result; then, if virtue is not less her safeguard than intelligence, she is as much bound to apply the proper means for securing the former as the latter? or, in other words, including both under the one term, education, ought not the state to foster an education calculated to secure virtuous, not less than intelligent citizens?

There are on the secular side, important radical assumptions connected not only with the question of public education, but also the very character and functions of government. Thus Dr. Spear says of them (Religion and the State): "They are secularists in respect to the ends and functions of government—as much so as in respect to the ends and functions of a bank corporation or a railroad company; and they are equally secularists in regard to the purposes, and hence the management, of the public schools."

Some of the fundamental mistakes on the negative side of the question should be made manifest, before we consider its positive side.

PERSONS AND THINGS.

Mrs. Hayes has already invited Mrs. Garfield to visit her this winter in Washington, in order that she may become initiated into the domestic and social duties of the White House.

It is now the style in France for wedding ceremonies to last three days, and it is said the Chicago girls are thinking about adopting the custom and thus postpone the time for a divorce.

Mr. Henry Clay, the grandson of "Harry of the West," who joined the Howgate Polar expedition, did not return with the ship Gulnare, but is spending the winter at Eiienbeak, Greenland.

An Indian girl baby was born recently with two heads. It has been said that two heads are better than one, but when that girl grows up to the doing-up-hair age it is doubtful if she will admit that they are in her case.

A hundred years ago, when you called on a girl she kissed you good-by. Now, if you suggest anything of the sort, her father calls you into the library and asks you what you are worth. Are we a nation? And is this progress?

An Oil City maiden, who has just recovered from a two-days' attack of green apple cramps, recited in public that touching poem, "Go feel what I have felt," with such emphasis that it brought tears to the eyes of the corner grocer.

Mrs. Millard Fillmore is suffering from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. Mrs. Fillmore now resides in Buffalo. When she married ex-President Fillmore she was the widow of Ezekiel McIntosh of Albany, where she then resided in the old Schuyler mansion.

Childhood's innocence: Somebody gave little Augustus two toys. "I will give this one to my dear little sister," he said showing the largest. "Because it is the prettiest?" said the delighted mamma. "No," he replied, without hesitation; "because it's broken."

A young lady who teaches music in an academy in western New York, sent an order to a publisher recently, in which she had spelled words very poorly. She apologized by adding a postscript as follows: "You must eskews this letter, as I pla bi noat, but spel bi car."

"The newspaper abuse of John I. Davenport," says the Boston Herald, "is calculated to convey a very erroneous idea of the famous election supervisor. He is considerably under that indefinite standard known as 'the average size,' and instead of being a bully or resembling a ward politician, he is bright, clean-looking, quiet and gentlemanly, a person as could be desired."

He was a lawyer, and had been to Leadville. A Galveston friend asked him how he liked it. He said: "I didn't like it all. I am a probate lawyer, and I came very near starving to death. Out there they never give a fellow time to make his will, so there is no probate business. I tell you, it is no place for a probate lawyer. If a man dies a natural death out there they hold an inquest on him."

OUR EXPORTS.

It is certainly gratifying to all true Americans to know that of late years our exports have largely exceeded our imports, not alone in such staple articles as wheat and beef, but in almost every branch of industry. Ten years ago nearly all the perfumery and toilet articles used in this country were imported from Europe; to-day we not only manufacture for ourselves, but are large exporters to South America, China, Japan and the Colonies. The immense growth of this particular industry on the Pacific Coast is simply astonishing. Slaven, who is now one of the largest cologne makers in the world, last year exported some 2,000,000 bottles of his famous Yosemite Cologne. For sale by Woodard, Clarke & Co., Portland, Oregon.

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.
